

ABSTRACT

5 This is an application request for a patent for a portable supporting structure in combination with a container which is used in the application of enemas. Thanks to the difference in pressure between the enema and the intestine, the enema enters the intestine easily. This portable container to apply enemas has a container, a hose, and a support structure. All the pieces can be disassembled so that they fit inside the container.